Dear friends, partners and colleagues,

As readers, we like to cross boundaries, diving into a new world or putting ourselves into situations we would never encounter in our day-to-day lives.

We are very excited about the start of three new children's series. With her comic-style novel Penny Pony Patricia Schröder presents herself in a completely new light: a hilarious read (girl-horse transformation) with richly designed interior will capture horse lovers and comic fans alike. Fabulous Felina is successful author Antje Szillat's appealing blend of animal adventure and a magical twist. And the new series Unicorn Paradise, based on an idea by Princess Lillifee author Monika Finsterbusch, takes us to an enchanted island world beyond our wildest dreams.

Our highlight board book Where is Pipo Penguin? will win you over instantly with age-appropriate search-and-find fun. Diverse and joyful illustrations animate little ones to look closely, and feel: Little Pipo is soft and cuddly by textile flocking, hidden on every page. Pipo's successor, Ella Owl, is no less endearing.

Fans of our little pirate Capt'n Sharky will rejoice as in the new book he and his friend Michi are diving into a deep-sea adventure to discover the ruins of a sunken city. But is the friendly Captain and his submarine to be trusted? Brace yourself for yet another Capt'n Sharky highlight this year: the movie will be in theatres August 2018.

We like the quote: "Your head is round so that your thoughts can change direction." And books help them do just that! So dive with us into all these different worlds and let them surprise you with their new perspectives. Your Copenrath rights team is ready to support your publishing objectives with samples, pricings and schedules for our novelties and strong backlist titles.

With best wishes,

All rights available

- Up-to-the-minute subject
- Thrills and dicing with death: suspense-filled teenage thriller in the world of the 'roofers'
- An important question for the target readership: how far would I go for my first love?

"They climb onto roofs, balance on cranes and post the videos on the internet: so-called roofers perform their daring stunts in the attempt to break all boundaries." Alice is horrified when she discovers that her new boyfriend, Nic, is a 'roofer' – someone who performs acrobatics on the highest roofs and structures in the city, and risks his life every day. And when Nic's ex-girlfriend suddenly shows up, determined to prove her love with a risky stunt, Alice is faced with a dilemma. How far would she go to prove her love? And does she even have to?

Jutta Wilke spent over 12 years as an independent solicitor and solicitor for family law. When her youngest got into kindergarten, she decided to start from scratch and finally do what she had dreamed of her whole life: becoming a children's author. Like the Beat of a Wing was nominated for the Hansjörg-Martin Prize for the best youth title.

- Bittersweet story with similarities to The Intouchables and *The Educators
- Up to the minute subject matter: rich versus poor
- Two young people, two worlds, a common anger at life

Oleg and Maximilian come from two different worlds. Oleg has just dropped out of school and is keeping his head above water with menial jobs, while Maximilian is the heir to a banking family and grew up in a large villa. But the two boys are united by one thing: their unbridled anger at life! Maximilian lost his parents in a terrible accident, and is now in a wheelchair. A failed break-in brings the boys together by chance. Oleg can't stand the rich brat Maximilian, but he still has to dance to his tune. It's just that he has no idea what Maximilian is really planning to do with him.

NEW

- Christian terrorism – a new take on a controversial issue
- Nightmarish, brilliantly observed psychological thriller

Six girls disappear without a trace and return home six days later without any warning – all wearing the same, strange clothes, all with a wound on their hand that has been stitched up and carefully disinfected. And all six are being blackmailed and refuse to talk. A religious fanatic has kept them locked up and tried out the biblical six works of mercy on them: feeding the hungry, giving drink to the thirsty, giving shelter to strangers, clothing the naked, caring for the sick and visiting those in prison.

Nara (17) is one of the hostages, and she doesn't talk to anyone after she is released, either; her kidnapper has threatened to harm her brother. But what was the point of the abduction? Why did the man choose her? Gradually, Nara realises her nightmare is far from over: in the days that follow, she observes the 'works' being repeated in a much more radical way on refugees and Muslims. What role will she play in all this?

- A sophisticated game of cat-and-mouse
- Thriller pro Claudia Puhlfürst taps into our deepest fears and worst expectations

A week-long excursion to the middle of nowhere – only weird biology teachers could come up with ideas like that, think Lena and her best friend Anne. Their youth hostel is surrounded by nothing but tall trees and thick undergrowth. Late at night, Anne is attacked by a hooded figure, and there is another attack the very next night. One of the girls in the group is found strangled in the forest! Totally traumatised, the class cuts the trip short – but the murderer must have followed them home, because he's already lying in wait for his next victim...

- Important topic for young girls: is it friendship - or something more?
- Delicately written by award-winning author Kristina Dunker

Merle is spending the summer at the forest lake – how boring! But before long she has succumbed to the enchanting summer mood by the water. She drifts along – and soon makes friends with Felix, who is so good at making her laugh with his fantastical stories about a sunken kingdom in the lake. The summer visitors also include Dana and a group of other young people, and suddenly Merle is faced with a question: would she rather explore the secret world of the waves with Felix, or gossip with Dana about boys, music and clothes?

Kristina Dunker's dreamy observations on the uncertainties faced by girls between childhood and teenage years are spot on - a sensitive novel about adolescence, and a love letter to the summer!

© Kristina Dunker

Kristina Dunker had her first book published at just 17. She studied art history, and today works as a freelance author. She wrote Into the Blue at her 'summer residence' by a lake in Bavaria – and like Merle, she describes herself as a 'real water rat'.

- For all those who think they're 'not normal'
- Rebellious, funny, poetic – a protagonist you'll warm to straight away
- A strong case against the mainstream

Anouk is determined to change her life. From now on she's going to be NORMAL, listen to pop music and play computer games, so she can finally join in conversations. Unfortunately her stone-age laptop won't load the stupid game. While Anouk waits for the big change, she hammers out her memoirs on the keyboard - full of rage, wit and love for her 'word friends'. And her life remains as crazy as ever: with MaMi and Matrix, her mothers; with Lore, the new girl in her class and with Moritz, who writes heavy metal songs but sadly also has the 'not normal' gene...

Nikola Huppertz has written a captivating homage to difference – and created a touching protagonist who is at once strong and tender, and whose voice you won't forget.

- For all girls who want to learn more about themselves
- Strong theme: what is it like to get by without any adults around?

How on earth did she get into this situation? Juli, a 13-year-old future film-maker with a phobia of animals, finds herself in an ancient folding boat on the river – with Jonte, a boy she hardly knows, his little brother Per and an ugly tomcat called Puma. What begins as a bit of fun, with Jonte claiming he can easily get all the way to the sea in the boat, becomes a challenge: not only because they are suddenly forced to flee, but also because the two older children now have to look after the younger boy. And when something happens to Jonte, everything suddenly depends on Juli...

Anna Herzog's 'boat trip' is realistic and well-observed, but at the same time has a lightness of touch and plenty of witty clashes between the young people – and some tender first emotions.

- Topical discussion-starter: unaccompanied minor refugees
- New topic for the Just Me series: how many secrets can a friendship bear?

Kim is overjoyed when Lesya joins her class at school. Finally, someone who doesn't seem to fit in anywhere, just like her. Lesya decorates her almost empty flat with wonderful wall-paintings, cooks delicious Ukrainian food and comes up with an absolutely failsafe test for being in love. A perfect summer would lie ahead of the friends, if it wasn't for their neighbour, Bicycle Klose. He rambles on about the authorities and "having to report it" – Klose is clearly a petty-minded tell-tale. And so Kim joins in when Lesya wishes him dead. But then the old neighbour actually does die in his bike workshop, and Kim becomes increasingly uneasy: why is Lesya acting so strangely? And how many secrets can a friendship bear – even if it's the best friendship in the world?

- A gripping horse thriller
- Sympathetic underdog heroine uncovers intrigue in an English manor house
- Kyra Dittmann cleverly mixes tension, romance and a horse theme to create a thrilling adventure

Imagine you live in one of the poorest places in England – and then your mum tells you she's marrying a Baron and you're going to live in a castle! That's exactly what happens to Abby, whose friends all start calling her "Downton Abby". Moving into Grave Horse Castle is even worse than she feared: with all the loyal servants and the etiquette rules, Abby feels anything but princess-like...

And then there's the unapproachable Grey, the Baron's adopted son. When several horses fall ill – including his stallion Black Hawk – the two of them get closer. But there is a dark secret surrounding Grey: what really happened all those years ago, when his mother had her fatal riding accident? And what does the snobby Lady Camilla, who is always hanging around the Baron, have to do with it?

- Innovative mix of genres: horses and suspense in a Young Adult book
- Bleak, atmospheric setting on an isolated American ranch
- A strong heroine on the trail of an unscrupulous criminal gang

Oh, great. Getting a D in English means Roxy is banished for the summer holidays to see her hitherto unknown father on his horse ranch in America. And Roxy HATES animals. She hates the smell of the stables even more. And things don't get any better when she meets Cale, who looks after the horses, is incredibly good-looking, and thinks she's a complete idiot. But Roxy is the only one to figure out that something isn't right on the ranch: why do horses keep disappearing from the pastures - and why does every investigation come to nothing? There's only one creature who Roxy feels understands her in this wasteland. And that's the wholly unpredictable stallion Hot Coffee, who won't let anyone near him. Except Roxy. What is his secret? Slowly, Roxy begins to uncover the machinations of a cold-blooded horse mafia... and finds herself in great danger.

- A girl searching for a proper home
- Touching story by Annette Langen
- Issues of mindfulness and time spent with family – wrapped up in a fast-paced adventure

Since her mother's death, Skye has been living in a boarding school, while her father's work takes him all over the world. After a massive row with super-bitch Yolanda, who Skye now has to share a room with, she comes up with a plan: she's going to run away and live with her father. It's not enough to skype him regularly – she needs someone to give her a hug. And a proper home. But is that something her father, who lives in a private jet, can offer her? And where is she supposed to go to school, if she's constantly jetting around the world? What sounds like a dream life to start off with turns out to be a plan with a lot of drawbacks. But Skye won't give up her fight to hold onto the little bit of family she has left.

- A new gem from top author Dagmar Chidolue
- A city child becomes an 'animal rescuer' in the countryside

Country people are really odd, thinks Lili, who until recently lived in the city: their new neighbour Carola has living lawnmowers in her garden, one of which even grunts. There are signs up in the supermarket from someone wanting to sell chickens. And the boys next door only speak 'galactic.' Plus everything seems to revolve around the numerous four-legged creatures that live here – and to start with, Lili prefers to remain at a safe distance. But when, out of the blue, some chickens move into Lili's new garden, it's pretty clear that she will have to get over her fear of animals...

Dagmar Chidolue tells the story of an exciting summer in the sticks in her usual warm-hearted, humorous style.

Pia has a new friend: Penny. Or Pony. Depending on whether someone has just whinnied. Or whether it's the middle of the month. Because unfortunately Penny, the new girl next door, turns into a pony once a month, or whenever she hears a whinny. It's very stressful! In desperation, Penny's mother has rented a stall at a riding stable for her. But would you believe it – Penny-Pony is the spitting image of one of the competition hopefuls there, whose owner will stop at nothing to win the next show jumping competition. It's a point of honour for Pia and her new pony friend to completely mess up the competition for the arrogant riding stable clique! Pia's only worry is that her pony might turn back into Penny in the middle of a round...

Save the books this Christmas!

- A joyful, warm-hearted advent story from Sarah Bosse
- A great read with a real Christmas message

Oh, how joyfully – but wait: Granny Rosa has slipped over at the Christmas market, and although she is wearing an angel costume, she now has a broken hip. At least she didn't break her neck, think Greta and Finn, and they promise her they'll take Mum the key to the Book Nook, Granny's book shop. They don't mention the fact that Mum is away on a training course. They're sure Granny's assistant, a man known as Monocle, will keep things ship-shape! But they soon realise that not only is Monocle making a mess of the customers' orders - he also has a real problem: he has lost his flat and is having trouble finding somewhere to live. Greta and Finn have to do something! With the help of a wonderful song and the combined helpfulness of the Book Nook's loyal customers, will everyone manage to have a happy Christmas after all?

The Tale of the Wolf

ISBN 978-3-649-62694-7

NEW

Oh my goodness, is that a wolf crouching over there by the bus stop in the pouring rain? Felina can hardly believe her eyes. But on closer inspection she realises it's not a wolf, but an elderly German Shepherd dog. He seems to have been abandoned; he's thin and even has an injury.

Back at Lucky Clover Farm, Felina and her father try to nurse the dog back to health. Felina's talking cat, Paulo of Panama, is less delighted with the new housemate. The fact that the dog is traumatised and doesn't speak is absolutely fine with him.

Then the dog, who Felina has named Rasmus, vanishes without a trace while they are out for a walk. And on the next farm, the farmer thinks he keeps seeing a hungry wolf. Suddenly everyone is convinced that Rasmus is the supposedly thieving wolf... everyone except Felina. In the dead of night, she sets out to try and save the dog from the farmer... and suddenly finds herself face to face with a real wolf.

MURKY MAYHEM!

- Nonsense on every page: this goblin creates mayhem everywhere he goes!
- Great fun to read aloud: warring gangs, a hunt for a criminal and a dash of magic
- Hilarious illustrations by Usch Luhn and Susanne Göhlich

When Polly meets a garden-gnome-sized goblin called Murks, the most boring school holidays ever seem to be saved: Murks suddenly starts getting involved in everything. And that can be annoying, for example when Polly has to explain who has eaten half the contents of the larder. But it can also be very useful, because with his help she is accepted into the boy next door's 'cat head gang' and has brilliant adventures with them. Until Murks asks for her help with a special mission: he has to find a new home for his people, and negotiate with the great WUMP who lives in the moon caves. Polly decides to see this 'monster' for herself...

- Hugely popular theme for girls aged 5 and up
- Based on an idea by the creator of "Princess Lillifee", Monika Finsterbusch
- With attractive Spiegelburg products

Over the horizon, at the end of the rainbow: that's where you'll find the Unicorn Paradise. Every day there is an enchanting adventure. The Dream Reef is where wishes come true; wild Sparkle Dragons play on Dragon Rock, and the lake on Moon Lake Island predicts the future. This is the world of Rosie, Vanilla and Blue – three little unicorns with a very special gift...

"I'll bring you happiness," promises Rosie.

"I'm your best friend," whispers Vanilla – and sparkling magic stars dance around the two unicorns. Blue sighs - he wants to be able to do magic, too! How is he supposed to look after the Unicorn Paradise with his two sisters when he hasn't yet found the magic inside him? Searching for his purpose in life, Blue goes on a daring adventure and flies to Dragon Rock, the island no unicorn has ever set foot on. Will his dearest wish be granted there?

„Finally, the storm is over!“ cheer the three little unicorns, Vanilla, Rosie and Blue. The siblings head out straight away to check that the plants and animals in their world are alright after several days of rain.

But what's that? One little floater after another is suddenly falling ill! What can be wrong with the delicate little creatures? And who can take their place in caring for the light flowers, so that day and night still happen in the Unicorn Paradise? The three little unicorns do everything they can to save their paradise – with the help of their friends, and of course a whole lot of magic!

Anna Blum writes stories for children. She lives in a little village with her family and lots of animals. From her desk, Anna Blum can see out into a lovely enchanted garden. And sometimes, at least so it seems to her, all kinds of mythical creatures come to play there. Among them, a whole lot of little unicorns.

Meja Mermaid · Vol. 1

Meja Mermaid, the little nixie, is all alone in the round house with the sea-green bell: her parents are away on yet another secret mission. Then one day, Meja discovers a strange parcel outside her front door. Being a curious creature, she opens the box... and in no time at all finds herself face to face with the rather unusual sea turtle Padson, a worryturtle, who from that moment on will follow Meja everywhere. And it's a good job, because Meja soon embarks on a daring adventure, in which nothing less is at stake than the safety of the underwater city of Lyckhav. Curtain up for Meja Mermaid – the Pippi Longstocking of the ocean!

© Erik Ole Lindström

Erik Ole Lindström was born in Stockholm in 1979. He worked in television for many years. He is now a writer and journalist. He thought up the story of "Meja Mermaid" for his own children. Lindström lives on one of Stockholm's skerry islands with his four-year-old son, eight-year-old daughter and the family dog.

Wiebke Rauers was born in 1986 and studied design communications in Düsseldorf. After spending several years working as a character designer for an animated film studio, she went freelance in 2015. Her first illustrated children's book was published in 2016 by Dressler Verlag (Martin Baltscheit's Just One Day), the cover illustration being awarded the Carl Buch prize.

MEJA MERMAID, SAVIOUR OF THE OCEANS!

Meja Mermaid · Vol. 2
Saving Little Dolphin
ISBN 978-3-649-62347-2

NEW

What are those spine-chilling noises plaguing the underwater world of Lyckhav? Meja Mermaid, the little nixie, goes out looking and finds some big boats in the bay above Lyckhav – and a net full of sea creatures! Meja instantly likes Caspar the little dolphin, and she is determined to help him and the other animals. But humans are dangerous, very dangerous, as Meja's worryturtle Padson knows. Meja's only hope is to use a magical ploy to outwit the fishermen!

Meja Mermaid · Vol. 3
The Sunken Ship
ISBN 978-3-649-62693-0

NEW

The great midsummer festival has almost arrived. Meja and Padson have their hands full decorating the little house with the sea-green bell and preparing everything for the party. And Meja's parents should be coming as well! But then Meja gets an urgent call for help: the little mermaids and their teacher, Mrs Black, are stuck in a sunken ship! The ever-hungry Haki gang are already circling the wreck, licking their lips. Meja drops everything and rushes off to help them. Will she make it in time?

Growing up with
COPPENRATH

The right book for every age

0-6 months Arrival and wonder

The newborn discovers the world with all their senses. Cloth books and fan-fold books with clear images and contrasting colours promote baby's perceptive faculties and soon become beloved companions.

6-12
months Crawling and recognition

Baby's world gets bigger! They grasp and investigate their favourite books and articles for play with better dexterity, prompting enthusiastic comments on beloved images.

12-18
months Walking and mastering

Da, da! Recognizing and even sounding familiar things in a book - babies' development makes enormous advances. Reading aloud provides young world explorers with a sense of security.

18-24
months Speaking and discovering

A new word every day! Little word wizards comprehend more and more linguistic connections. Increasingly skillful fingers ensure that every day experiences are discovered - behind flaps, in sliders or moving elements and much more!

24+
months Conversation and understanding

Now the little ones are getting big! Board picture books stimulate their imaginations with more complex picture-worlds and variety, and role models help them better to understand their daily lives.

He pats the rocket's metal case
And climbs aboard. Now, off to space!
The rocket shudders, shakes, and then
The countdown starts at number 10.

At 9 he waves from high above
With his special spaceman glove.
8 - 7 - 6: the lights turn red,
He puts a colander on his head.

At 5 the engines start to roar
Like nothing Manni's heard before.
4 - 3 - 2 - 1: No going back!
At zero, there's a mighty CRACK.

Ontje is excited: a giant whale has stranded itself on their island! A visitor at long last, thinks the little otter, and works hard to look after the accidental guest. But the tide that should take the whale back out to sea doesn't get high enough. And eventually Ontje has had enough: why is Onno suddenly spending so much time with the whale, and not with him? The old fisherman usually keeps to himself. Does he like the whale better than he likes Ontje? A story about trust that asks the important question: how do I know that my best friend is still my best friend?

Successful author and illustrator Walko is back with a creative rampage: little readers are in for a wild adventure with funny, quirky characters and a strong identification figure. Robin is a smart cookie who knows what to do in the trickiest of situations, and shows that children have plenty of brains, too...

With his relaxed, rough-and-ready fairy-tale story and his cheeky illustrations, Walko has created an exciting world of bandits where there is lots to discover and lots to laugh at too.

Walko first trained as a printer, but then went into film and became a background artist for Walt Disney London and Steven Spielberg's Amblimation Studio. He was a production designer on numerous German film and TV productions, and now works as an author and illustrator. His children's book series "Hare and Elderbear" has sold a total of around 300,000 copies in German-speaking countries.

Classic Stories

- A book about the longing every child feels for a friend, for understanding and recognition
- Making the case for creativity and freedom in childhood
- Award-winning author and illustrator Helme Heine

"I'll always be there for you when you need me," says Bumm. The grown-ups think the Dumbster is 'monstrously dumb' because he likes to make a racket and is not very well-behaved. But the lovable invisible friend has other qualities, too... Helme Heine's picture book is a promise to all readers – and a tongue-in-cheek warning to adults, not to always be so narrow-minded about things.

When the end of the day comes...

Simon is sad and can't get to sleep. Can the moon fox cheer him up? Marie, a little shooting star, lands on the earth without having granted a single wish! Will she manage to make it back up to the sky, and grant someone their heart's desire as well? The little sheep, on the other hand, is full of beans and doesn't want to sleep at all – until the Sandman takes him on a journey through the night...

Hektor and his friends cause trouble in the forest. Hektor, Squirrel, Owl and Hedgehog are a super-strong gang (even if the fawn doesn't want to play with them). But then their football goes over into BB's garden. And BB is dangerous, because BB stands for Bad Bear. Of course, Hektor will go and get the ball back for his friends – after all, he's the bravest! ...or is he?

A new picture book series with topics like fear and being cool, bravery and cowardice, good and bad prejudices and the little things pre-school children worry about.

Exploring Sensitive Themes

Parents separating, the death of someone close to them, a parent who has mental health problems, bullying... Sometimes little ones are confronted with extraordinarily difficult situations, and require special care and attention. But these times are often unsettling for everyone, and many parents are frightened of doing or saying the wrong thing. Our picture books offer help to families in these difficult times – and beyond. To help children grow up healthy and secure!

On the way to kindergarten, a man in a car stops and talks to Marie and her brother Max. He offers to give them a lift. Max really wants a ride in his shiny car, but Marie listens to her gut instinct and says loud and clear: "No!" All parents want to protect their children from these dangers. But how do you approach the topic with your child without creating uncertainty and fear? This book aims to help teachers and families have a conversation with children. It shows how important it is to give them the self-confidence that will enable them to protect themselves.

The author, Petra Lazik, is a former detective chief superintendent and spent many years investigating sex crimes against children. She now volunteers in prevention and works in her own practice as a systemic counsellor (DGSF) and trauma therapist.

The star fairy Alicia is worried: Cosima, the littlest star, just can't remember where he is supposed to be in the sky. Every evening Alicia has to go looking for him, but tonight she can't find him at all. Does Princess Lillifee have any suggestions? Together they fly all across the sky, looking for Cosima. Finally they find him behind a cloud. Why is he hiding there?

Princess Lillifee's new adventure takes her into the enchanting realm of the stars, and one little star in particular who hasn't yet found his place in the heavens. Will Lillifee be able to help him?

Many miles beneath the waves, Capt'n Sharky and Michi have discovered the ruins of a sunken city. Legend has it that a long time ago, a volcano plunged it into the depths – and an incredible hoard of treasure along with it. So of course the two pirates have to go back one more time to fetch the treasure!

Together with Captain Ramirez and his submarine, they dive back down into the mysterious world of the deep sea. But are they really alone down there? Is Ramirez really as friendly as he makes out? And what is so important about the strange statue made of blue gold that they discover inside a pyramid...?

An exciting new deep-sea adventure for all fans of our little pirate.

There is great excitement at Dragon Rock Castle. The annual music competition is coming up and there is a very special prize in store for the winner: a precious magic flute has spent 100 years in its enchanted nest of ivy, and only a true master of music can release it. No wonder all kinds of musicians have travelled from far-off countries. But Vincelot is convinced there is something fishy going on at the festival: during the night someone has tried to steal the flute - and all of a sudden the competitors are acting very strange and suspicious. Of course, the little knight and his friends start looking for the thief at once. But who has their sights set on the "magical" instrument?

- 24 stories and poems
- Includes an advent calendar
- Great value for money

24 angels go on an Advent journey. Each day, a little angel comes down to earth – to a place where they are urgently needed. The first angel's name is Linus. He's not afraid. It's just that his heart is thumping a little bit. Archangel Gabriel leads him by the hand to heaven's great gate. „I'm going to count to three," says Gabriel. „And on three, you fly. Understand?" Linus nods. Will he get everything right...?

- The Christmas story told from the viewpoint of a little spider
- Exciting perspectives

"The night lay over the earth like a blanket. 'Am I going mad, or is that really there?' said the little spider to the donkey, pointing to a bright star that was rising above them. But the donkey just chewed his hay and didn't answer. He only pricked up his ears when he suddenly heard a baby crying in the stable..." The little spider has had enough: no one respects her beautiful webs; they're always being destroyed. But when the holy family has to hide in a cave from some soldiers, the little spider has an idea!

- A Christmas story with a difference, from the perspective of a little dog
- Entertaining narrative
- Atmospheric illustrations
- For dog fans of all ages

"It all started with a big telling-off over a stupid boot. Although strange things had started happening before that, as well: the peculiar wheel of lights on the table, the long chain of little presents that the children got excited over every morning. I had never seen anything like it. But then, I was just a baby, and I had only been with my new family a few weeks..." Stephan Goetz tells a touching and funny story about how the little dog Charlie sees Advent, and finally his first Christmas. An entertaining story for the whole family.

Where once there was nothing, suddenly there is something. God has created it. He gives us night and day. First it's dark, and then it's light. "We need a sky as well," thinks God. „And lights for the day and the night." And so he creates the sun and moon. He decorates the night with stars and the day with a rainbow... With simple words and colourful pictures, Erwin Grosche and Maria Wissmann tell 25 of the best loved stories from the Old and New Testaments, from creation to the resurrection of Jesus. A children's Bible for the whole family!

Over 2,000 years ago, Jesus roamed the Holy Land, telling people about God. More and more people liked what he said. And that meant he became a thorn in the side of both the priests and the Romans, as he threatened to disturb the peace of occupied Israel. And although Jesus knew that death awaited him, he still set off to celebrate Passover in Jerusalem...

Traffic lights, cars, zebra crossings: it's all too easy to lose track of what's going on when you're crossing the road. Fortunately Lukas and Maja are pretty good at it. Whether on foot, on bikes or travelling by bus or tram – they get through tricky situations together and show how you should behave when there's traffic about.

Renewable energy, climate change, endangered species, globalisation, floods and famines – these buzz words are constantly in the news but what do they really mean? Examples, tips, activities and interesting experiments show – and don't just tell – kids how they can make the world a better place by taking small but effective steps. Printed on FSC paper.

- First nature knowledge for young children
- With bonus craft activity: 3 snap-together animals
- With a creative activity on each double-page spread

250 Years of Coppentrath – The publishing house Coppentrath located at Münster’s harbour has a long history: Founded in 1768 by Josef Heinrich Coppentrath the firm remained family-owned for over two centuries. In 1977 the young graphic artist and publisher Wolfgang Hölker took over, giving the company a completely new direction with his innovative ideas. Today, children’s and gift books are the backbone of this privately-owned company. “I have to be proud of the books that I publish”, Wolfgang Hölker says.

So arose a program for the production of ambitious books of high visual quality – always with that special something. A particular strength is the emphasis on supporting book series and characters with non-book products – even internationally, through Die Spiegelburg International (www.spiegelburg-international.com).

In addition, Coppentrath imprint Hölker Verlag is an award-winning program – publishing unique, visually-appealing and well-researched cookery and lifestyle books. (www.hoelker-verlag.de)
